Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my deep interest in participating in an IT internship at your esteemed company.

Currently, I am a first-year undergraduate student majoring in Computer Science with Management at King's College London. Throughout my studies, I have acquired solid theoretical foundations and practical skills in programming and software engineering. Although my curriculum does not yet include machine learning, I am independently deepening my knowledge in this area through online courses and practice.

I am eager to develop my programming skills and gain experience by working on real projects. Although this will be my first internship, I believe that my high level of competence will enable me to handle demanding tasks. After completing my studies, I hope to work at a company similar to yours, gaining experience and delivering top-quality products to clients.

My skills include proficient computer usage and knowledge of the latest technologies, allowing me to achieve maximum efficiency. Personally, I am passionate about playing chess, which translates into meticulous planning and attention to detail in my work.

I am keen to arrange a meeting to discuss the internship opportunities your company offers. If you have any questions regarding my application, please feel free to contact me via phone/WhatsApp or email.

Kind Regards,

Bartosz Glowacki
